The female pilots of the second world war are honoured in this exciting, empowering book that shows young girls can achieve anything.

The year is 1927, and in America, England and Russia, three girls share a dream: to fly. But it won't be easy... Against the odds, Hazel, Marlene and Lilya follow their hearts, enrolling in pilot courses and eventually flying for their countries in World War II. Join the adventures of these women as they display feats of incredible bravery in this beautiful book of sensitive and moving illustrations.

Sally Deng is an artist based in Los Angeles, recently graduated from ArtCenter College of Design. She has exhibited widely in California, Illinois and Texas and won the American Illustration Award in 2016 and 2017.

Ages 6+ | Hardback | 48pp | 245 x 305mm
£12.99 | ISBN 978-1-911171-52-2

From the woven rafts of ancient Mesopotamia to 17th century Dutch merchant ships, and onwards to today's modern sailing hydrofoils, trace the fascinating story of boats and their place in our culture.

The history of boats is intertwined with our own – since the earliest times, humans have found ways to cross the bodies of water that cut them off from further exploration and expansion. Young readers can delve into the thousands of years of boat-making history and learn about famous boats from legends and fiction in this elegantly illustrated book.

Jarom Vogel is an illustrator, designer and digital artist. Originally enrolling at Brigham Young University to study dentistry, he soon switched to illustration. He now works freelance and lives in Utah.

Iris Volant is a researcher and writer for Flying Eye Books, specialising in non-fiction for children. She lives in London.

This clever title from a fresh young talent is a simple story with a deeper message about seizing the moment, beautifully told through sweet, contemporary illustrations.

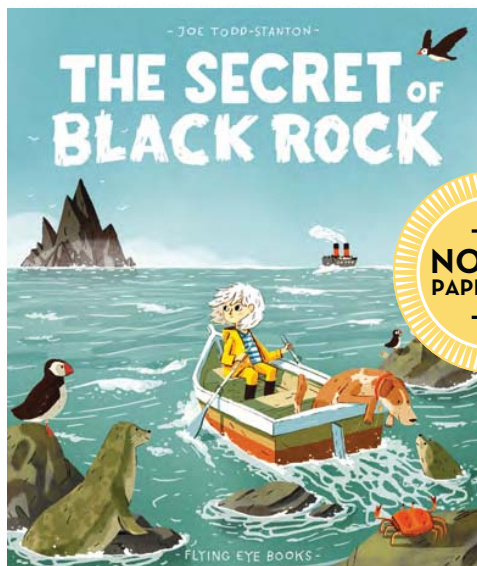

Once upon a time, there was a blank page... Until suddenly some creatures appear. They decide they must be in a story book, and so they wait for something to happen... all of them except one, who quietly creates their own wonderful world. Eventually the others realise what they have been missing, and join in. After all, you can't just wait for life to happen to you!

Marianna Coppo was born in Rome and studied editorial illustration in Milan in 2012. She has not stopped drawing since, and loves children's books and unexpected journeys.
